A letter has been received from Mr. and Mrs. John Tabor from Cape Verde Island, Brava, where they are spending the winter. They are both well, and on New Year's day they went out in the garden and picked green peas for dinner. After dinner they sat under an orange tree and ate all the oranges and bananas they wanted. The only thing they missed was their sleigh ride on New Year's day.

The electric railroad and its employees having failed to reach an agreement on the length of time that the proposed contract was to run have agreed to arbitrate the matter. The employees have already chosen as their member of the conference Dennis Fitzgerald, who came here some time ago as a delegate from the Amalgamated Association of Street Car employees. The company wanted a ten years agreement, and the men were opposed to anything longer than two years.

M. M. Gordon was in Waterbury yesterday to take the testimony of John Knapp in the chancery case of John Dillingham, administrator of the estate of Jane Knapp, vs. Eugene Moody and William Devold. A hearing was conducted before Z. S. Stanton, master, for the purpose of securing the affidavit of Mr. Knapp, as he is seriously ill and not expected to live. The question involves a right of household valued at $1,500, a deed of which Mr. Moody secured. The action is brought to set aside the transfer, as it is claimed that Mrs. Knapp signed a deed of the property when mentally incompetent.
